Cabane Tortin (Valais, Switzerland)

Rising 3,000 meters above the Tortin Glacier, Cabane Tortin is the highest private-use ski chalet in the Alps—reachable only by gondola, ski, or snowmobile. Open exclusively during the winter season, it draws on the heritage of the Swiss mountain cabane—long a place of gathering and adventure in the high Alps—and elevates it into an experience of rare seclusion and luxury. Days begin with untouched powder and guided backcountry tours, and end with sweeping views of Mont Blanc, starlit skies free from light, and the warmth of a walnut-lined sauna. Inside, panoramic design and meticulous detail meet the discreet service of a private chef, concierge, and expert mountain guides, shaping every moment to the rhythm of each guest. Entirely off-grid, yet wholly indulgent, Cabane Tortin is a place to share unhurried time with family and friends—where alpine tradition, adventure, and elegance come together at the very top of the mountains.
